LCC 2024 offers lots of great reasons to come early, stay late, and otherwise extend your stay in the Pacific Northwest.

No umbrella (or car) required!

The several city blocks connected by covered skywalks to the Hyatt Regency Bellevue are The Bellevue Collection, with more than 50 restaurants, two multi-screen movie houses (one reserved for people old enough to consume adult beverages), a bowling alley / arcade, and more than 200 local, national, and global retailers.

It's also easy to visit Bellevue Arts Museum as part of The Bellevue Collection. And, if you're visiting with or meeting little people, KidsQuest Museum is 0.3 miles – a walk of 5 to 10 minutes – and next to the local branch of the King County library.

Bellevue Botanical Garden's Urban Meadow

Spring in the Seattle area also can be a great time to spend time outdoors. Tulips and cherry trees will be blooming, and what non-residents call "rain" usually is no more than a light mist that typically passes in a few minutes.

The Washington Trails Association maintains a nearly exhaustive list of walks and hikes in the Evergreen State that you can filter by elevation, distance, and other variables.

The 53 spectacular acres of Bellevue Botanical Garden are open and free every day. And, just a few minutes away on the other side of Lake Washington, you can find Washington Park Arboretum and its acclaimed Japanese Garden. For Japanese garden fans, don't miss Kubota Garden, the hidden gem of Rainier Beach.

Bellevue considers itself a city in park, with more than 100 destinations across 2,700 acres for walking and hiking, enjoying the shores and beaches of Lake Washington, picnicking, and more. For boat lovers, check out Lake Washington and Lake Union cruises from Kirkland, the town just north of Bellevue.

Snoqualmie Falls by Zak Gudakov at Unsplash

You can always get a damn fine cup of coffee because it's easy to make a Twin Peaks pilgrimage to Snoqualmie, only 20 miles east of our LCC 2024 conference. Starbucks afficionados can visit the first location in Pike Place Market or the first Reserve Roastery in Capital Hill.

Seattle is recognized by the United Nations as a UNESCO City of Literature. The printed and digital maps include more than 300 points of interest in and around Seattle – including the Rem Koolhaasdesigned Central Library.

Downtown Seattle is a short trip across Lake Washington from Bellevue. The iconic Space Needle is part of Seattle Center, which was the location of the Century 21 Exposition in 1962. Other popular destinations in Seattle Center include Museum of Pop Culture (MoPOP) and Chihuly Garden and Glass, as well as Pacific Science Center and Seattle Children's Museum.

Historic Pike Place Market is one of the city's most popular destinations for visitors. The "soul of Seattle" spans nine acres in the center of downtown, hosting hundreds of residents and more than 200 independently owned shops and restaurants, almost 250 craftspeople and farmers, and more than 60 permitted buskers.

Seattle Art Museum, the Wing Luke Museum of the Asian Pacific American Experience, MOHAI, and the Burke Museum anchor the cultural heart of Seattle. The Seattle Underground Tour was a hugely popular part of the last LCC in Seattle, and also check out some of Seattle other quirky destinations such as Seattle Pinball Museum, the Fremont Troll, and almost 150 more weird and wonderful opportunities to explore the Pacific Northwest.

Animal lovers can visit Woodland Park Zoo, Seattle Aquarium, and Point Defiance Zoo and Aquarium in Tacoma.

Whale-watching and wildlife excursions depart from Edmonds, just north of Seattle, and from Friday Harbor in the San Juan Islands, which requires a ferry ride from Anacortes.

And for people who just enjoy getting out on the water, Argosy is one of several tour providers in Seattle.

The Seattle area also boasts unparalleled opportunities for aviation and aeronautic enthusiasts. The Museum of Flight at Boeing Field, south of downtown Seattle and north of Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, displays more than 175 aircraft. The Future of Flight at Paine Field in Everett lets you tour the facility where Boeing assembles its wide-body aircraft – if you've ever heard about the building that's so big it has its own clouds inside, this is the place.

Sports fans can check the schedules of pro teams including Seattle Mariners baseball, Seattle Sounders men's soccer, OL Reign women's soccer, Seattle Dragons XFL football, and Seattle Seawolves rugby. It's a little early for Seattle Orcas cricket, but check schedules for minor and development league games in all sports.
